BIO

Tracey L. Williams is a Partner in Peckar & Abramson's Dallas office. She focuses her practice on construction law and litigation, and creditors' rights and commercial collections.

With experience representing contractors, developers, owners, and subcontractors in Texas and Oklahoma, Tracey handles matters arising at every stage of the construction process and beyond. She assists clients in managing project risk through effective contractual risk allocation and counsels clients in construction matters involving contract disputes, mechanic's and materialman's liens, bond claims, construction defect, and other construction-related claims. In addition to construction law, Tracey has extensive experience in creditor's rights and commercial collections, where she is well-versed in the complexities of debt collections and methods of maximizing recovery for her clients.

Tracey received her Bachelor of Business Administration from the University of Texas at Arlington, where she graduated cum laude. She earned her law degree from Texas Wesleyan University School of Law, now known as the Texas A&M University School of Law, where she served as managing editor of Law Review. She is admitted to practice law in all Texas and Oklahoma state courts, as well as the United States District Courts for the Northern, Eastern, Western and Southern Districts of Texas.

Tracey is recognized by Best Lawyers in Construction Law and Construction Litigation, and was honored with the 2023 Luna Award for Business Advocate of the Year by the Regional Hispanic Contractors Association (RHCA). This award is presented to individuals or companies that champion women in construction, architecture, engineering, and business across North Texas.
