OF COUNSEL

Donald A. Tobin is Of Counsel at Peckar & Abramson in the Washington D.C, office. He has extensive experience in litigation and general counseling in both construction and government contracting. He represents government contractors and construction contractors in the negotiation and preparation of contract and subcontract documents. He works with contractors in the preparation and negotiation of requests for equitable adjustment, with an emphasis on the pricing of extra work, delay and inefficiency claims. He has successfully represented contractors and subcontractors in proceedings before the Armed Services, Civilian and General Accountability Office (GAO) Boards of Contract Appeals, as well as the United States Court of Federal Claims. He has experience in all types of alternative dispute resolution and has settled numerous cases for his clients via mediation.

Donald has extensive experiences in presenting and defending bid protests at the GAO, as well as the United States Court of Federal Claims. He has represented and counseled numerous small businesses with respect to small business size standard issues.

Donald has represented both government contractors and construction companies in matters concerning compliance with both federal and state procurement and ethics laws and regulations. He has assisted clients in debarment and suspension matters before various federal agencies.

Donald has authored numerous articles on various government contracting and construction law topics for the American Bar Association Forum on the Construction Industry. He has lectured and conducted seminars on such topics as effective proposal writing, compliance with federal procurement laws, effective claim presentation and recovery of additional costs under the changes and differing site conditions clauses.

Donald is admitted to practice in the District of Columbia, the United States Court of Federal Claims and the United States District Court for the District of Columbia. He is a member of the American Bar Association. He received his bachelor of arts degree from the College of the Holy Cross and his law degree from Boston College Law School.
