BIO

Blake Householder is an Associate in P&A's Houston office representing contractors and stakeholders throughout all phases of their construction projects.

Through multiple clerkships, including at P&A, Blake assisted on a range of construction law and litigation matters, building on his knowledge of the field. He continues to draw on this experience to support clients in navigating the complexities of construction law by providing them with informed and practical guidance. Blake earned his J.D. from South Texas College of Law Houston, where he was a member of the Real Estate and Construction Law Society, further cultivating his interest and knowledge in construction law.
